

Department of Psychology Faculty Search 2009-2010

The Department of Psychology in the College of Arts and Sciences at Case Western Reserve University invites applications from outstanding scholars for one or more tenure-track positions (rank open). Priority will be given to candidates whose research and teaching skills complement the current strengths of our department in developmental psychology and neurodevelopmental disorders; aging and end-of-life issues; cognition, brain, and emotion; quantitative methods; or adult clinical and child clinical psychology. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Psychology by the time of appointment, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a strong publication record appropriate to rank. Appointment at the level of Associate Professor will require evidence of progress toward a national reputation for research expertise, a distinguished record of publication, and a record of funded research. Appointment at the level of Professor will additionally require a significant national reputation for research excellence. The typical teaching requirement is 2 courses each semester. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2010, and continue until the search is concluded. Electronic applications preferred, consisting of a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests, and three letters of recommendation sent directly to the department by the evaluators. Applications should be sent to Professor Robert Greene (robert.greene@case.edu). If necessary, print materials can be sent to Search Committee, Department of Psychology, Case Western Reserve University, 10900 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland OH 44106-7123. In employment, as in education, Case Western Reserve University is committed to Equal Opportunity and Diversity. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Case is a recipient of a National Science Foundation ADVANCE Institutional Transformation Grant to increase the participation of women in Science and Engineering.