

Case Western Reserve University

Associate Professor or Professor of Music Education

Case Western Reserve University invites applications for Associate Professor or Professor of Music Education. CWRU's Department of Music is characterized by a distinguished, active, and innovative faculty, and by outstanding undergraduate and graduate students.

All applicants must hold a doctoral degree in Music Education and have a distinguished record of scholarly publication, a distinguished record of college teaching and dissertation advisement, and be an active presenter at state, national, and international conferences. Candidates at the Associate Professor level will have a strong national reputation in the field, and those at the Professor level will have a substantial body of significant publication and an international reputation. Duties will include graduate research classes, advanced-level courses in area of expertise, and dissertation supervision, along with active participation in the administration of the Music Education program at graduate and undergraduate levels. The expected teaching load is two courses per semester.

The CWRU Department of Music offers BA, BS, MA, MAL, DMA, and PhD degrees in a full range of specialties in Musicology and Music Education, with special programs in Historical Performance Practice, Popular Music, and research in Music Education. Departmental Guidelines call for senior faculty to show outstanding success in scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and service, with an international reputation in the respective discipline.

The Joint Music Program with the Cleveland Institute of Music is an integrated music program at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Students at CWRU and CIM have the benefit of pursuing studies at both schools, thus enjoying the benefits of both a conservatory and a major research university. Music history and music education courses are all taught at CWRU. The two institutions share a campus setting in University Circle, together with The Cleveland Orchestra, the Cleveland Museum of Art, and several other cultural organizations. Collaborations also exist with Cleveland's Rock & Roll Hall of Fame and Museum and its Library & Archives, The Music Settlement of Cleveland, and area schools.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Please send a letter of application and curriculum vitae, along with contact information for four references, to lls3@case.edu or to:
