

The Department of Classics at Case Western Reserve University invites applications for a non-tenure-track appointment at the rank of Instructor beginning with the 2013-14 academic year. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Classics by the time of appointment. The successful applicant will have responsibilities in the areas of teaching (including student advising) and service. The teaching load is three courses per semester and includes courses in Latin language and literature, classical literature in translation, and etymology, as well as a "First Seminar" in the university-wide undergraduate program of liberal education, SAGES. Applicants will be expected to participate in service within the department, as well as in the college and university, and in outreach.

Applications received by May 29, 2013, will receive full consideration. If the application is mailed, send it to: Charles Burroughs, Chair, Classics Department, Mather House, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, OH 44106-7125. Electronic applications to ceb33@case.edu are preferred. Applications should include a letter of application, cv, teaching evaluations, and the names and contact information of three referees whom we may contact.

In employment, as in education, Case Western Reserve University is committed to Equal Opportunity and Diversity. Women, veterans, members of underrepresented minority groups, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Case Western Reserve University provides reasonable accommodations to applicants with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application and hiring process should contact the Office of Inclusion, Diversity and Equal Opportunity at 216-368-8877 to request a reasonable accommodation. Determinations as to granting reasonable accommodations for any applicant will be made on a case-by-case basis.
