Consistently ranked among America’s top universities, Case Western Reserve University is distinguished by its strengths in education, research, service and experiential learning.

With origins dating to 1826, Case Western Reserve emerged from the 1967 federation of the Case Institute of Technology and Western Reserve University.

Today, the university has students from 50 states and 92 countries, who join nationally renowned faculty in pursuing their academic and research passions through nearly 200 top-ranked programs.
Points of Pride

> U.S. News & World Report names Case Western Reserve among the top 50 national universities. The university is also ranked as one of the top 50 values in private education by Kiplinger’s Personal Finance.

> Building a diverse and inclusive community is among Case Western Reserve’s highest institutions priorities. To advance diversity on campus, the university created a cabinet-level position in 2008 to lead the Office of Diversity, Inclusion and Equal Opportunity and celebrated the opening of its LGBT Center in 2010.

> As part of its commitment to a more sustainable future, Case Western Reserve has developed a Climate Action Plan that pledges to reduce the university’s carbon footprint to net zero within 40 years.

> Case Western Reserve has been ranked among the country’s “best neighbor” colleges and universities, with students, faculty and staff investing more than 400,000 volunteer hours per year through more than 500 community outreach programs.

> As a leader in global education, Case Western Reserve is building on a long history of international research, education and service with partnerships and programs that extend far beyond campus.

> Case Western Reserve is located in Cleveland’s University Circle, a 550-acre, park-like concentration of nearly 50 cultural, medical, educational, religious and social service institutions.

To learn more about supporting students, faculty and research, please contact the Office of University Relations & Development at 216.368.4352.