

WE WELCOME THE STUDENTS, FACULTY
AND STAFF OF CASE-WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

The Ingenuity Festival Village will officially open Thursday, July 13 with an explosion of art, music, dance theater, and interactive technology. The festival features an amazing array of art/technology collaborations, and the best of Northeast Ohio's performing artists, visual artists and musicians. Patrons will be able to take in the works of more than 90 organizations and 1,000 individuals. Witness modern dance inspired by NASA technology. Experience an interactive video game developed by the Cleveland Institute of Art. See performances from Verb Ballet, Cleveland Opera, Karamu House, and performers from the International Piano Competition, video computer graphics artist Kasumi, a new work by acclaimed director Damien Gray... plus great fun for kids, delectable foods and beverage, and much, much more. Ingenuity is the biggest most exciting event in Northeast Ohio this summer.

The 2006 Ingenuity Festival District is located in the lower Prospect Avenue area from Ontario Avenue to East 9th Street, plus East 4th Street from Prospect Avenue to Euclid Avenue, and the East 1st Street Alley. Performances and exhibits will take place at traditional venues, clubs and restaurants, as well as in unique areas such as alleys, vacant storefronts and parking garages that will be transformed to theaters and performance space. Ingenuity runs from Thursday, July 13 – Sunday, July 16.

Admission is $10. Children under 12 years are free.
